PETITIONS AND MEMORIALS

The following petitions and memorials were laid before the Senate and were referred or ordered to lie on the table as indicated:

POM-91. A resolution adopted by the Senate of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico urging the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) to show temperance in the application of asset valuation rules to minority-owned banks established in Puerto Rico, to establish effective measures so as to expedite the granting of credit, and to help local banks in their financial recovery and capitalization; to the Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs.

SENATE RESOLUTION NO. 860

During the last year, the finances of a significant number of banking institutions around the world were severely impacted as a result of the worldwide economic crisis. Puerto Rico was not the exception in this serious and complex financial problem. We see more often news reporting such problems and governments assessing financial proposals and alternatives to provide mechanisms so as to address and stop the loss suffered by this sector, as well as strengthening their economies by promoting and revitalizing banking activities. Certainly, success in the recovery of the global economy lies in achieving the delicate balance between the needs and rules of the different economies, their applicability to consumers, and their implementation by the regulating bodies of such governments.

The press in Puerto Rico recently published data furnished by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, known as the FDIC, reporting that as of September 30, 2009, local banks maintained a diminishing trend by reporting a reduction in their total assets equal to 9%, and a net loss, as of such date, of approximately $147 million. They also reported on the efforts made by the Administration of Governor Luis Fortuño to reach financing agreements that would allow the Government of Puerto Rico to purchase assets from domestic banks through the "Troubled Asset Relief Program" (TARP) in order for them to lower their loan-in-default reserves and grant new loans.

The importance of the Banking Industry in the economy of Puerto Rico is unquestionable. Banks in Puerto Rico generate over 15,000 direct jobs and countless indirect jobs by financing the business activity in Puerto Rico. Furthermore, in the beginning of this decade, banks were major taxpayers into the treasury of Puerto Rico, with taxes over $200 million. In light of the difficult financial situation faced by banks, the FDIC has decided to establish stringent regulatory examinations that contravene the public policy of President Barack Obama and Governor Luis Fortuño of reactivating and making regional and national economies feasible. Specifically, in times requiring that temperance be shown in the valuation of assets, the FDIC, through its examiners, is suggesting proposals whose effect would be detrimental to the value of assets used as collateral for loans in the banks of Puerto Rico. This could entail significant increases in the loan reserve of financial institutions in Puerto Rico and a potential reduction on the net worth of domestic banks. Therefore, this would cause a reduction in the lending and economic activity in Puerto Rico.

It is necessary to mention that, according to FDIC data, most banks in Puerto Rico are among the top twenty largest minority-owned banks of the Nation. For example, Banco Popular of Puerto Rico holds the first position; First Bank of Puerto Rico holds the second position; Westernbank of Puerto Rico holds the third position; R-G Premier Bank of Puerto Rico holds the eighth position; and Eurobank holds the thirteenth position, respectively.

As in Puerto Rico, this issue has been experienced at the national level, as recently stated by Congressman Barney Frank, Representative for the 4th congressional district of the State of Massachusetts and Chairman of the House Financial Services Committee, in a letter addressed to the members of the Federal Reserve System, the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, the Office of the Thrift Supervision, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, and the National Credit Union Administration. In said letter, Congressman Frank calls on them to show temperance in the application of the rules that govern national banks and urges federal regulating entities to take into account safety and soundness standards established by them.

Said official also recognized that one of the challenges currently faced by national banks is how to respond to the call from the United States Congress to stimulate the national economy by establishing measures so as to promote lending activities and to work with troubled borrowers facing foreclosure proceedings, while dealing with the directives from federal government regulators. It has been proven on different occasions that the construction and execution of these regulatory standards do not allow for the expected market stimulus, since the same are counter to the message of Congress. Such has been the case when regulatory agencies representatives have intervened with community banks, such as those of Puerto Rico, requiring compliance with even more stringent directives in the banking industry, which preclude banks from recovering their assets promptly and efficiently.

On the other hand, on October 30, 2009, federal regulators established a new policy on commercial loan restructuring. The new policy establishes, among other things, temperance and prudence in the decision-making process regarding loan restructuring, the timely identification of losses, and the proper classification of loans. The new policy establishes that the classification of a loan should not be based solely on the fact that the value of the collateral has declined, in absence of other adverse factors. Loan restructurings are generally in the best interest of both the banking institutions and the borrowers. Furthermore, the new policy establishes that examiners should give a reasonable amount of deference to collateral valuation assumptions when these are made by qualified appraisers or banking institutions. This practice by the FDIC is not consistent with the principles of this new policy.

For all of the above, the Senate of Puerto Rico concludes that the application by the FDIC of stringent asset valuation rules would have a severe impact on the participation of minority-owned banks and would substantially reduce the access of minority populations to credit and financial sources. Thus, the FDIC is hereby urged to show temperance in its practices with minority-owned banks established in Puerto Rico; to establish effective measures so as to expedite the granting of credit; and to help domestic banks in their financial recovery and capitalization.

Be it Resolved by the Senate of Puerto Rico:

Section 1.—To urge the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) to show temperance in the application of asset valuation rules to minority-owned banks established in Puerto Rico, to establish effective measures so as to expedite the granting of credit, and to help local banks in their financial recovery and capitalization.

Section 4.—This Resolution shall be made public by forwarding a copy thereof to the state and national media.

Section 5.—This Resolution shall take effect immediately after its approval by the Senate of Puerto Rico.

POM-92. A resolution adopted by the Senate of the General Assembly of the State of Tennessee urging Congress to stimulate markets for recycled materials, recycling, and source reduction and the development of comprehensive solid waste management plans; to the Committee on Environment and Public Works.

SENATE RESOLUTION No. 176

Whereas, recognizing the need to manage solid waste in an environmentally, economically, and politically acceptable manner, states are enacting comprehensive solid waste management plans; and

Whereas, in the long run, source reduction and recycling offer the most economically and environmentally sound methods for dealing with a significant percentage of the solid waste stream; and

nessee believes that properly designed and operated landfills will continue to be a component of any comprehensive solid waste management plan; and

Whereas, the volume of waste to be landfilled should be reduced and minimized through environmentally sound methods such as source separation to retrieve recyclable or reusable materials; and

Whereas, yard waste and some biodegradable materials should be composted rather than landfilled, and source separation should occur in all waste streams; and

Whereas, solid waste incinerators without energy recovery and landfilling should be limited, whenever practical, to non-toxic and non-hazardous materials that cannot be treated by any other economically and environmentally sound method; and

Whereas, with respect to waste-to-energy or resource recovery facilities, their capacity should be designed for the solid waste volume remaining after source separation, toxic materials removal, recycling, and pollution prevention measures have been implemented; and

Whereas, the states are in need of the full cooperation and assistance of the federal government to accomplish their diverse solid waste management objectives: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the One Hundred Sixth General Assembly of the State of Tennessee, That recognizing the importance of a state-federal partnership and in support of the objectives of the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA), the Senate of the One Hundred Sixth General Assembly of the State of Tennessee hereby urges the United States Congress to stimulate markets for recycled materials, recycling, and source reduction and the development of comprehensive solid waste management plans. Be it further

Resolved, That the Senate of the One Hundred Sixth General Assembly of the State of Tennessee urges the federal government to significantly increase technical assistance to state and local governments in developing comprehensive source reduction, source separation, reuse, and recycling programs while fully recognizing the primacy of state and local governments in solid waste management. The development of solid waste management plans is a state and local government responsibility and the federal government should restrict its role to reviewing these plans by setting performance standards. Be it further

Resolved, That the Senate of the One Hundred Sixth General Assembly of the State of Tennessee urges that regulation, tariffs, and transportation policies be revised to remove artificial price supports in order to create regulatory parity between recyclable and reusable material and virgin material. Be it further

Resolved, That the Senate of the One Hundred Sixth General Assembly of the State of Tennessee urges the full implementation of the provisions of RCRA requiring the federal government to promulgate regulations for federal procurement of recycled products. The federal government should give priority consideration to the purchase of reusable and recycled products and allow a temporary price differential, where applicable, for goods made from recycled materials. Be it further

Resolved, That the Senate of the One Hundred Sixth General Assembly of the State of Tennessee urges Congress to provide the states with the greatest authority possible to manage solid waste. Such an authorization should allow states to restrict imported waste and allow restrictions on the exportation of waste, including the imposition of differential fees. Be it further

of the State of Tennessee that funds received from any permits authorized by federal law and issued by states for purposes of management of solid waste should be expended as determined by state legislatures. Be it further Resolved, that an enrolled copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Speaker and the Clerk of the U.S. House of Representatives; the President and the Secretary of the U.S. Senate; each member of Tennessee's Congressional delegation; and the Honorable Barack Obama, President of the United States.
